

“Travelers on My Route” with Poet Carolyn Raphael

MONDAY, OCTOBER 23 at 7:00 pm
in the Main Library Community Room

“ ‘There still is time for laughter,’ declares Cosimo de’ Medici at the end of the poem Water Games, even though he has just enumerated unbearable losses that have befallen him. This pronouncement might as well be the motto of ‘Travelers on My Route,’ a book that celebrates life despite trauma and tragedy, ravages of aging and illness. Resignation is never the answer. Instead, Carolyn Raphael always finds reasons for joie de vivre, while acknowledging the cycle of blossoming and decay ... This is a wise and invigorating collection and a thrilling testament to the human spirit.”

— Review by Anton Yakovlev

Books are available for purchase and signing at the event.
No registration is required. Open to all!